

GROUPS

NCT is the group with the most members among all groups. It has 18 members.

44.4% of K-pop idols use stage name. There can be many reasons for this. Have a very long name, another idol debuting with this name or they don't like their name.

On average, Kpop groups have 5.5 members. 5-member group is the most common form.

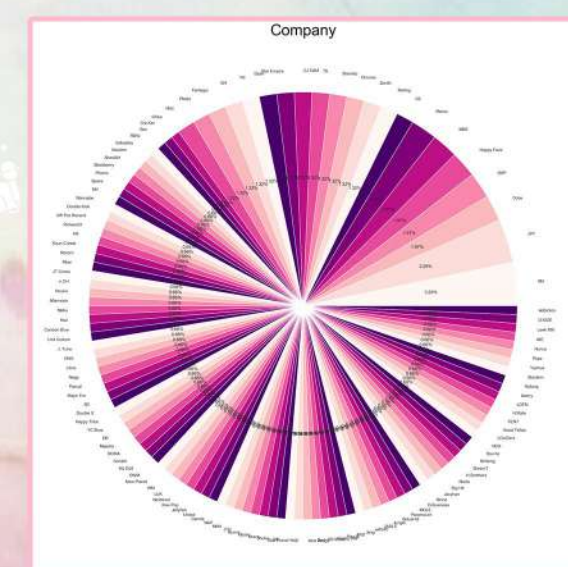

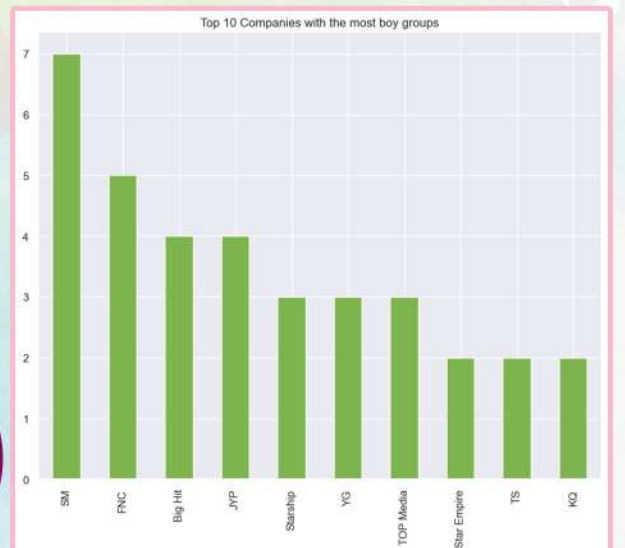

COMPANY

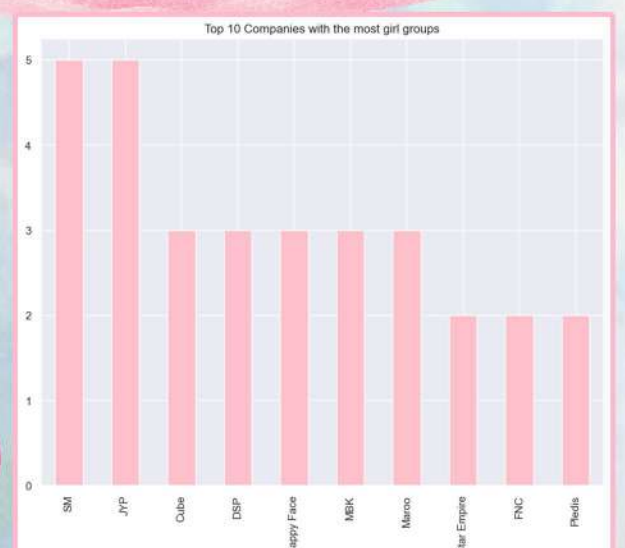

A pie chart visualization of companies with a kpop boy group is shown.

Top 10 companies with the most kpop boy groups are visualized. The company with the most kpop boy groups is clearly SM.

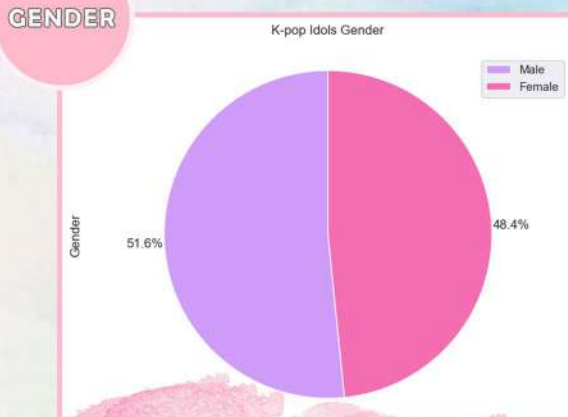

A pie chart visualization of companies with a kpop girl group is shown.

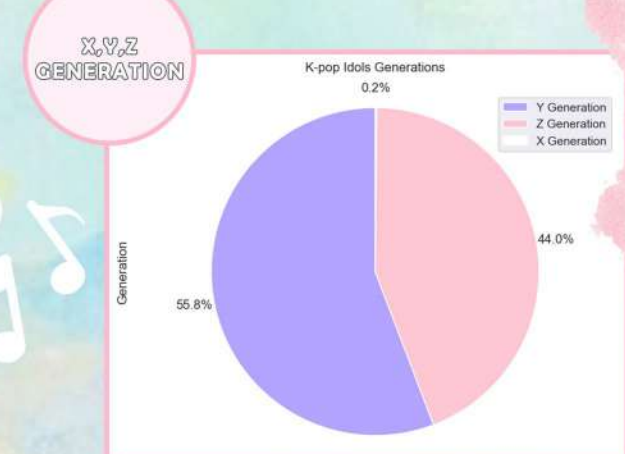

Top 10 companies with the most kpop girl groups are visualized. SM and JYP have the most kpop girl groups.

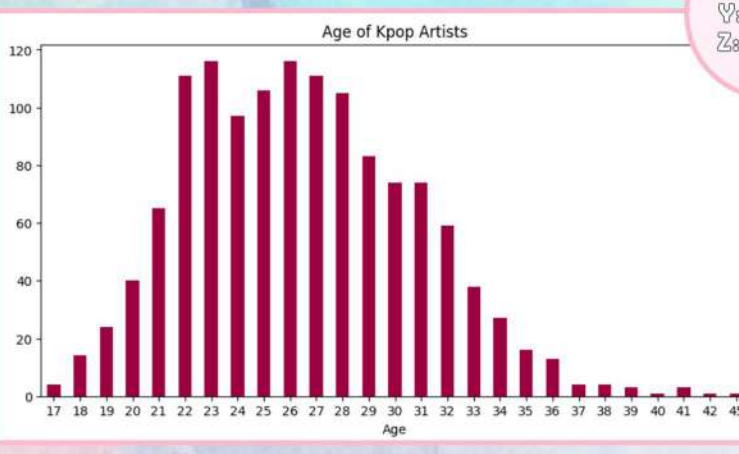

IDOLS

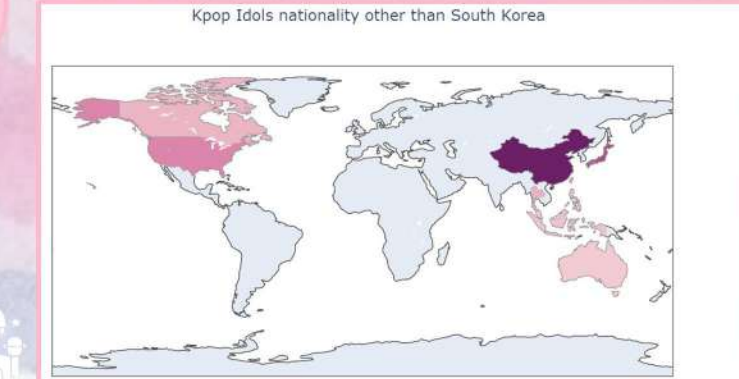

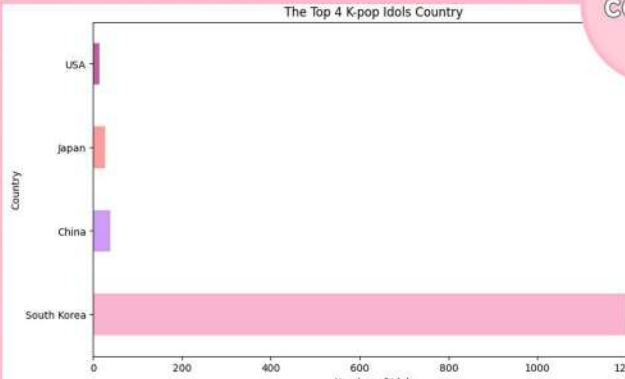

Here's slight difference between the percentage. So, it can be concluded that the number of female idols is not much different from the number of male idols.

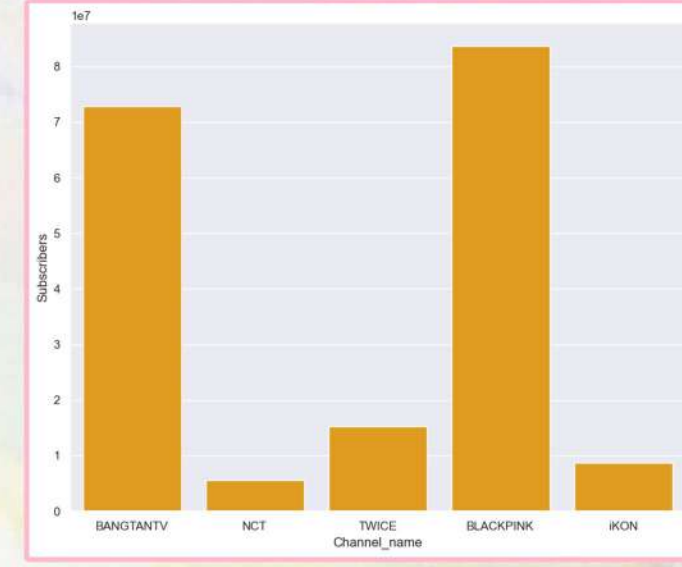

From this pie chart, it can be seen that Millennials (generation Y) is dominating. Until 2020, the K-pop idols mostly born in 1981 - 1996.

Kpop idols came from 12 different countries and most of them from China after South Korea.

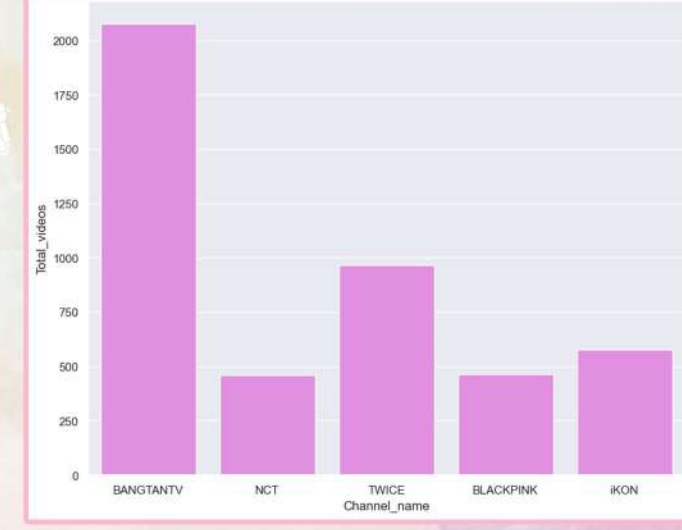

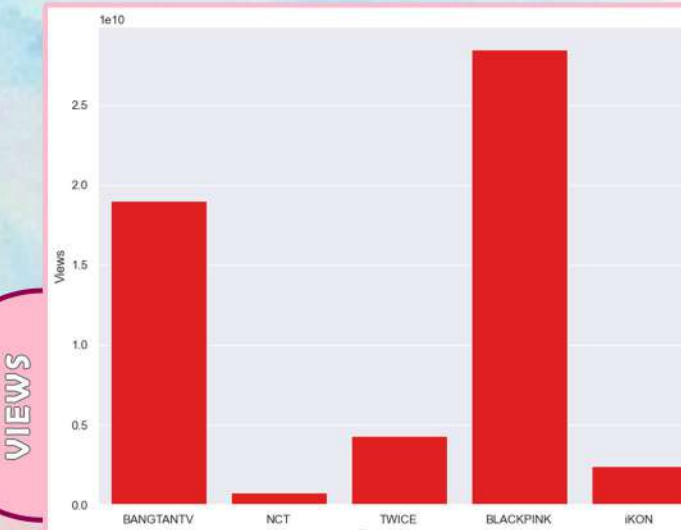

youtube channel analysis of 5 OF THE WELL-KNOWN GROUPS

Blackpink is the group with the most subscribers.

Blackpink is the group with the most views.

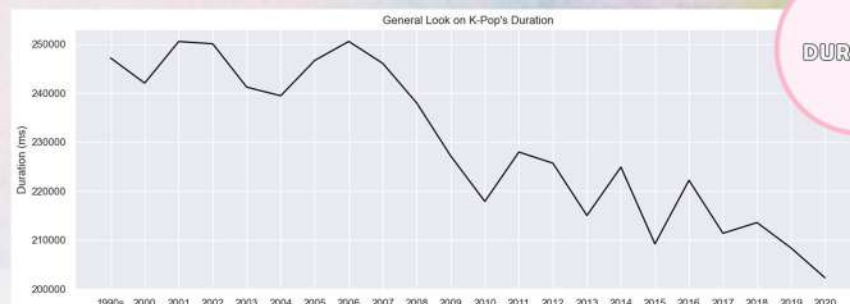

BangtamtV is the group with the highest number of videos.

As seen in the monthly statistics of video uploads, February is the month in which the most videos are uploaded.

SPOTIFY

K-pop albums' duration is significantly dropping since groups are releasing more mini albums than full albums.

K-pop energy is generally rising. The highest energy is in 2020. The reason may be social media, collaborations etc.

K-pop songs' danceability is getting higher since the companies are more focused on dancing than singing.

The K-pop tempo is not stable, especially with 2nd gen groups' debut the tempo gets higher